

In the claims:

16. (New) A collapsible keyboard, including:

a first keyboard-base section;

A a second keyboard-base section rotatably connected about a first axis to the first keyboard-base section so that the first and second keyboard-base sections are rotatable toward each other;

a first key-base section provided on the first keyboard-base section; a second key-base section rotatably connected about a second axis to the first key-base section so that the first and second key-base sections are rotatable toward each other, wherein the second key-base section is separably provided on the second keyboard-base section and wherein the first axis and the second axis are spaced from each other; and a plurality of keys mounted on the first and second key-base sections.